

each place where the skipping stone touches the creek remembering

Modern Haiku, Volume 51.3

strawberry moon
listening to the soft ping of jam jars cooling

Modern Haiku, Volume 47.1

before
they were my daughters ...
wildflowers

Frogpond, Volume 44:3

all poems and photos © Meredith Ackroyd
website: meredithackroyd.com Instagram: @meredithackroyd email: ackroydmr@hollins.edu

flight lines

haiku by Meredith Ackroyd

Haiku North America 2021

the last long slant
of September light flight of a cabbage white

Modern Haiku, Volume 48.1

twining the tendrils
of peas through the trellis the sweep of the sun

tinywords, 17.2

sounding the depth
of this darkness
spring peepers

The Heron's Nest, Volume XXIII

his joke
breaks the silence
mayapples

Modern Haiku, Volume 47.3

their voices lighten
as he helps with her math thistle down

The Helping Hand Haiku Anthology

subtexts
we cross the invisible
flight lines of bees

tinywords, Issue 19.2

shaping a piece
of the warm dark
the wren's nest

Root & Star, Issue 23